Dear precious Hubby: —

Just rec'd your little message of Tuesday. It sure was a pity to put 4¢ worth of stamps to carry that. Talk about being stingy! Good Heavens!

Three weeks to-day, honey! Everyone here is telling me how sorry they are that I am going. Everyone is going to miss me etc. Now the compliments are in season — and how! If I get a swell head you'll know the reason why. Have called up the baggage room this morning to be sure about the case. The woman who answered me told me they would allow a case the size of a good size trunk — and told me the weight was not to exceed 250#. The case I got I think will be too small, so I went down to the general Dry dept. & they told me they would save one for me. I'll go down again on Monday as I want to get it home as early as possible. I'll send it by Express.

To-day the weather is splendid! All day yesterday & the day before it poured. Last night was something awful. I never saw it rain so hard.

Called Rose up this morning & she tells me both Mum & Henry are feeling better. Mum says she felt so much better yesterday that she doesn't know whether to enter the hosp. or not. Of course I shall see that she does, as one day she may feel better but you can never tell

Called Rose up this morning & she tells me both Mama & Henry are feeling better. Mama says she felt so much better yesterday, that she doesn't know whether to retire the hoop or not. Of course I shall see that she does, as one day she may feel better but you can never know just when she may collapse. Just as soon as Mama sees she can move about a little better, she immediately starts in to work about, and so kills it all. Rose said Mama was very worried in that they did not hear from you. Explain everything, but see that you write as often as you can.

Shall close with all my love hugs & kisses and remember no more letter rots like the one I got to-day. I couldn't believe that you had the heart to write me so little. (Now did that case (under movies?) come out?) F.

Everlasting ly
Frances.
